CHRIS HOLMES NAMED ONE OF TOP 50 JUNIOR INSTRUCTORS BY US KIDS GOLF

ORLANDO, FLORIDA – January 14, 2014 – Chris Holmes, Director of Instruction at the Heathrow Country Club, has been recognized by the US Kids Golf Foundation as one of the Top 50 Junior Instructors in the country. According to Dan Van Horn, President of US Kids Golf Foundation, “This year’s applicant pool of nearly 750 candidates was the largest and strongest ever.”

Van Horn went on to say that Holmes selection was based on...”his outstanding commitment to youth golf, the impact his Kids Golf Program has had on students, and the esteem in which he is held by his professional peers.”

Homes will be officially by recognized for his achievement at a special ceremony held on January 23, 2014, at the PGA Merchandise Show in Orlando, Florida.

Holmes is a Class A British P.G.A. Professional. Having competed at the highest level for many years, he turned his focus to teaching golf in 1986. Holmes joined the Heathrow Country Club as Director of Instruction in 1998 and has developed an Award Winning Kids Golf Instructional Program. Over the years he has helped many junior golfers realize their golfing potential. Some of his students have gone on to win Amateur Junior Golf Association (AJGA) events and high school state golf championships. Many of his students have also received full university golf scholarships.

“We are so proud of Chris in being selected as one of the Top 50 Junior Instructors in the Country”, said Nate Kalb, Director of Operations for Heathrow Country Club. “He and his team have developed a first-class kids golf program here at Heathrow and we congratulate him on this well deserved national recognition.”
